

PEOLC Strategy Outcomes Mapped to Board Outcomes

How did we reach these outcomes?

Board outcomes

People nearing the end of their life are recognised and supported on time

People at the end of life live and die well according to what matters to them

All people at the end of life receive high quality, well-coordinated care at the right place at the right time and with the right people

People at the end of life and carers are able to talk about death with those close to them in their communities. They feel their loved ones are well supported during and after their care.

Strategy outcomes

Be seen and treated as individuals who are encouraged to make and share advance care plans and to be involved in decisions regarding their care

Have their needs and conditions recognised quickly and be given fair access to services regardless of their background or characteristics

Be supported to live well as long as possible, taking account of their expressed wishes and maximising their comfort and wellbeing

Receive care that is well-coordinated

Have their care provided by people who are well trained to do so and who have access to the necessary resources

Be part of communities that talk about death and dying, and that are ready, willing and able to provide the support needed

Be assured that their family, carers, and those close to them are well supported during and after their care, and that they are kept involved and informed throughout

How did we reach these outcomes?

Strategy outcomes: end of life patients will...

1. Be seen and treated as individuals who are encouraged to make and share advance care plans and to be involved in decisions regarding their care

2. Have their needs and conditions recognised quickly and be given fair access to services regardless of their background or characteristics

3. Be supported to live well as long as possible, taking account of their expressed wishes and maximising their comfort and wellbeing

4. Receive care that is well-coordinated

5. Have their care provided by people who are well trained to do so and who have access to the necessary resources

6. Be part of communities that talk about death and dying, and that are ready, willing and able to provide the support needed

7. Be assured that their family, carers, and those close to them are well supported during and after their care, and that they are kept involved and informed throughout

Board outcomes

1. People nearing the end of their life are recognised and supported on time

2. People at the end of life live and die well according to what matters to them

3. All people at the end of life receive high quality, well-coordinated care at the right place at the right time and with the right people

4. People at the end of life and carers are able to talk about death with those close to them in their communities. They feel their loved ones are well supported during and after their care.